African-American Heritage Month

History Month was created in 1926 when historian Carter G. Woodson and the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History announced the second week of February to be "Negro History Week". The second week was chosen because it coincided with the birthday of Abraham Lincoln on February 12 and of Frederick Douglass on February 14. These dates have been celebrated by black communities since the late 19th century.

Since its beginning, the primary emphasis of African-American Heritage Month has been placed on encouraging the teaching of the history of American blacks in the nation's public schools. At the time of Negro History Week's launch, Woodson contended that teaching black history was essential to ensure the physical and intellectual survival of the race within a broader society.

The first Negro History Week was met with a lukewarm response, but gained the cooperation of the Departments of Education in North Carolina, Delaware, and West Virginia as well as the city school administrations of Baltimore and Washington, D.C. Even though the concept was not accepted universally, the event was regarded by Woodson as "one of the most fortunate steps ever taken by the Association". Negro History Week grew in popularity throughout the following decades, with mayors across the United States endorsing it as a holiday.

Black History Month was first proposed by black educators and the Black United Students at Kent State University in February 1969. The first celebration of Black History Month took place at Kent State one year later, from January 2, 1970 – February 28, 1970. Six years later, Black History Month was being celebrated all across the country in educational institutions, centers of Black culture and community centers, both great and small.

This month, staff and students will be participating in several activities to highlight the contributions of African Americans to American history. To start, a Freedom Gallery Walk was put together down the main hallway as a reminder to us of some of the contributions made by African-Americans. Ms. Palm, Mr. Norman and Mr. Bunn will chaperone a group of students to a viewing of "Canal Street" which stars Bryshere Gray, from Empire. Filmed here at Proviso East, one might see some of our very own security team members in cameo appearances. Students are also scheduled to travel to the Museum of Science and Industry to learn about different contributions made by minorities. Finally, this month's culminating cherry on top is the African-American Heritage Club's assembly to celebrate the Harlem Renaissance and feature hip-hop artists' work.

Teen Dating Violence Awareness Month

By Mr. Goslawski
Health & Wellness Department

The month of February has been designated as Teen Dating Violence Awareness Month. It has been estimated that 1.5 million high school students nationwide experience physical abuse from a dating partner every year. It is also estimated that 3 in 4 parents have never talked to their children about domestic violence. The Proviso East health & wellness department brought students into the Social Room to interact with Pillars Community Health over the course of three days. Students heard from a survivor of domestic violence and the unfortunate circumstances she dealt with due to her abusers. They were then debriefed on the situations and informed of the red flags to look for in a relationship. The smaller group interaction was highly effective as the students were informed of safety tips for dating, signs of a healthy relationship versus an unhealthy relationship, the cycle of violence, the different types of relationship violence, and resources for someone who may need help.

21 Savage

By Endiah Taylor
Staff Writer

She'ya Bin Abraham-Joseph, who is known as 21 Savage was recently arrested by ICE because he's an immigrant from the United Kingdom. 21 Savage was in the United States illegally. His birth certificate says he was born in East London to British parents. The rapper's arrest shocked people because he was closely associated with Atlanta so, that's where people thought he was from. 21 Savage's arrest heightened awareness of what is happening to undocumented immigrants, especially in the “Trump Era.” 21 Savage was released on bond on February 13th. His attorney said that the Department of Homeland Security is no longer pursuing an aggravated felony charge against the rapper in his immigration case.

Hoodies for Trayvon

By Endiah Taylor
Staff Writer

From the tragic death of Trayvon Martin, a symbol has been used to represent the tragedy and the symbol is “the hoodie”. A simple hoodie has become a representation of how assumptions in America towards African Americans is a big problem. George Zimmerman told the 911 dispatcher, before he killed 17-year-old Trayvon Martin, that there was a young man in a “dark hoodie”, who was a “suspicious guy”. On February 5th, Trayvon’s birthday, people around the world wore a hoodie as a symbol of the tragedy and continued support for the Martin family. They continue to wear hoodies in marches and continue to say, “We are all Trayvon Martin.”

Test Taking Tips

Do you get anxious and nervous when you take tests? Do you sometimes run out of time? Do you have a hard time answering essay questions? Are your test grades lower than you'd like them to be? If you answered yes to any of previous questions, now is the time to work on improving your test-taking skills. Doing well on tests takes more than studying the material. You also need to be a smart test taker. Smart test takers know strategies that improve their confidence and help them choose the right answers. Whenever you're taking a quiz, test or final exam, keep these tips in mind.

Do you get anxious and nervous when you take tests? Do you sometimes run out of time? Do you have a hard time answering essay questions? Are your test grades lower than you'd like them to be? If you answered yes to any of previous questions, now is the time to work on improving your test-taking skills. Doing well on tests takes more than studying the material. You also need to be a smart test taker. Smart test takers know strategies that improve their confidence and help them choose the right answers. Whenever you're taking a quiz, test or final exam, keep these tips in mind.

Get off to a good start

- Have everything you need for the test when you go to class.
- As soon as you get your test, write anything you want to remember at the top (names, formulas, dates, etc.) Then read the directions.

Develop a plan

- Before you begin answering questions, quickly look over the entire test and decide how much time you'll spend on each section or question. For example, if a test has 25 multiple choice and 2 essay questions, you could plan to spend 10 minutes on the multiple-choice questions and 20 minutes on each essay.

Don't get stuck on difficult questions

- Put a dot or a light mark by any answer you aren't sure of. After you've gone through all of the questions, go back to the ones you've marked and try them again.

Check your answers

- If you have time, check all of your answers, even the ones you know are correct. You may have made a careless mistake. Use all of the time you're given.

Reduce test anxiety

- Replace irrational thoughts (I have to ace this test) and negative thoughts (I'll never pass this exam) with thoughts that are realistic and positive.
- Mentally practice going through the test. Visualize yourself walking into the classroom, taking the test, and answering the questions correctly.
- Walk into the classroom with your head up and your shoulders back. If you act more confident, you just may feel more confident.
- Before you start, take a deep breath and slowly release it. Relax, and do your best!

North Shore Country Day School Visit

By Mrs. Glickman

English Teacher / Club Mix Sponsor

On Saturday, January 16th, Ms. Jenna Bansbach, art teacher at PMSA, Ms. Ashley Glickman, English teacher at PEHS, and Ms. Siobhan Connaghan, special education teacher at PEHS, loaded seven students into a school van for an adventure up to the North Shore Country Day School in Winnetka, Illinois. Students attended the Illinois Safe Schools Alliance annual Youth Summit to prepare their gay-straight alliance (GSA) for the upcoming school year events as well as educational information on areas where LGBTQ+ youth are greatly affected. Students viewed a play about consent and engaged in dialogue about the conversations that need to take place in relationships to protect all parties involved in romantic and sexual relationships. Additionally, students learned about self-care, queer fashion, the issues of adultism, and racial justice. All of the students enjoyed time to connect with peers from Proviso Township High Schools as well as schools from across the state.
